

Sheri has been a great art teacher and the biggest help with getting ready to apply to college. My skill and passion for art have improved so much since I started taking lessons it's hard to even believe. She has helped me put together a portfolio I'm really proud of and I look forward to my class every week and improving more.

College and university art programs can often be difficult to get into. That means it's critical to have a professional looking portfolio to present during your interview with the faculty.

Accomplished mixed-media/pastel artist Sheri Tenaglia is offering art classes in her Williams Mill studio for the purpose of portfolio building. Her program is designed for students competing for admittance into arts high schools and post secondary programs in fine arts, interior design, illustration, graphic design and more (OCADU, Sheridan, YorkU, GuelphU etc.).

Sheri's classes are popular with both youth and adults, (many of them teachers themselves) and for good reason! As well as being a talented artist whose art is collected both locally and abroad, Sheri has 17 years teaching experience – in her studio, in community centres in Halton Hills and Brampton, and as a guest artist in elementary schools. Students also benefit by Sheri's positive, encouraging attitude and small class sizes. She has helped many students prepare outstanding portfolios that have helped them get into some of the toughest university and college programs.

Many of Sheri's students have experienced great success. They have won awards, illustrated for books, made sales, and some have even received university art scholarships.
